Editorials

- 1 Contemporary Trends in Radical Prostatectomy in the United States: Open vs Minimally Invasive Surgery
Deepansh Dalela and Mani Menon
- 3 Celebrating Mayo Clinic Proceedings' 90th Anniversary: A Story of Longevity and Progression of Mission
William L. Lanier

Original Articles

- 10 Radical Prostatectomy Trends in the United States: 1998 to 2011
Mark D. Tyson II, Paul E. Andrews, Robert F. Ferrigni, Mitchell R. Humphreys, Alexander S. Parker, and Erik P. Castle
The overall rate of radical prostatectomy in the population has remained relatively stable, but there has been a dramatic shift in surgical practice patterns from open surgery toward minimally invasive approaches.
- 17 Reducing the Harm of Prostate Cancer Screening: Repeated Prostate-Specific Antigen Testing
Luke T. Lavallée, Andrew Binette, Kelsey Wituk, Sonya Crossen, Ranjeeta Mallick, Dean A. Fergusson, Franco Momoli, Chris Morash, Ilias Cagiannos, and Rodney H. Breau
Men who had a normal result on repeated PSA testing were approximately 80% less likely to have a diagnosis of prostate cancer.
- 23 Post-September 11, 2001, Incidence of Systemic Autoimmune Diseases in World Trade Center-Exposed Firefighters and Emergency Medical Service Workers
Mayris P. Webber, William Mair, Cynthia S. Crowson, Hillel W. Cohen, Rachel Zeig-Owens, Charles B. Hall, Jessica Berman, Basit Qayyum, Nadia Jaber, Eric L. Matteson, Yang Liu, Kerry Kelly, and David J. Prezant
The terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center on September 11, 2001, exposed thousands of rescue/recovery workers to aerosolized dust. This study found an excess of systemic autoimmune disease in the group with higher exposure.

- 33 Risk of Stroke and Myocardial Infarction After Herpes Zoster in Older Adults in a US Community Population
Barbara P. Yawn, Peter C. Wollan, Maria A. Nagel, and Dan Gilden
Herpes zoster was associated with a short-term increased risk of stroke, which may be preventable with the prevention of herpes zoster.
- 45 CHADS₂ Scores as a Predictor of Ischemic Stroke in Patients With Peripheral Artery Disease
Yu-Wan Yang, Yi-Hsin Chen, Chia-Chun Hsu, Ching-Chih Lee, Yu-Hung Kuo, Hsun-Yang Chuang, and Teng-Fu Hsieh
Clinicians should use CHADS₂ scores to understand the risk of ischemic stroke in patients with peripheral artery disease, especially in medically fragile patients.
- 51 Angiotensin-Converting Enzyme Inhibitors or Angiotensin Receptor Blockers in Patients Without Heart Failure? Insights From 254,301 Patients From Randomized Trials
Sripal Bangalore, Robert Fakheri, Bora Toklu, Gbenga Ogedegbe, Howard Weintraub, and Franz H. Messerli
In patients without heart failure, evidence suggests that angiotensin receptor blockers are as efficacious and safe as angiotensin-converting enzyme inhibitors, with the added advantage of better tolerability.
- 61 Stool DNA Testing for Screening Detection of Colorectal Neoplasia in Alaska Native People
Diana G. Redwood, Elvin D. Asay, Ian D. Blake, Pamela E. Sacco, Claudia M. Christensen, Frank D. Sacco, James J. Tiesinga, Mary E. Devens, Steven R. Alberts, Douglas W. Mahoney, Tracy C. Yab, Patrick H. Foote, Thomas C. Smyrk, Ellen M. Provost, and David A. Ahlquist
Stool DNA testing for colorectal cancer was found to be an accurate noninvasive screening option for Alaska Native people, a population with one of world's highest rates of colorectal cancer.
- 71 Personalizing Aspirin Use for Targeted Breast Cancer Chemoprevention in Postmenopausal Women
Aditya Bardia, Tanya E. Keenan, Jon O. Ebbert, DeAnn Lazovich, Alice H. Wang, Robert A. Vierkant, Janet E. Olson, Celine M. Vachon, Paul J. Limburg, Kristin E. Anderson, and James R. Cerhan
The results of this study raise the hypothesis that aspirin chemoprevention may be effective only in certain higher-risk groups and not others, which may provide insight into mechanistic pathways.

Brief Report

- 81 Prevalence of Preexisting Cardiovascular Disease in Patients With Different Types of Cancer: The Unmet Need for Onco-Cardiology
Sadeer G. Al-Kindi and Guilherme H. Oliveira

Special Article

- 84 Disclosure of Industry Payments to Physicians: An Epidemiologic Analysis of Early Data From the Open Payments Program
Deborah C. Marshall, Madeleine E. Jackson, and Jona A. Hattangadi-Gluth
