GI Cancer

50 STING Ablation in T Cells Is Required for the Efficacy of STING Agonists in CAR-T Cell Immunotherapy of Pancreatic Cancer

I. Piseddu, R. Endres, F. Lanzl, L. Hammann, M. Bérouti, M. Thaler, L. Fahr, H. Fischer, V. Varlamova, J. Gärtig, D. Nixdorf, P. Layritz, C. Marx, C. Hörth, C. Witte, A. Bulut, D. Illig, A. M. Senz, L. Holdt, I. Regel, A. Gottschlich, M. Subklewe, J. Mayerle, D. Anz, S. Kobold, A. Linder, and V. Hornung

Ablating the immune sensor STING in CAR-T cells enhances their effectiveness against pancreatic cancer when combined with a STING-activating drug that boosts immune responses in the tumor environment.

66 Ganglioside-Mediated Neural-Acinar Crosstalk Facilitates Pancreatic Carcinogenesis via Metaplastic Niche Remodeling

F. Wei, Q. Zou, J. An, T. Zhang, Q. Sun, X. Li, T. Jiang, X. Zhu, T. Wen, J. He, and K. Xie

Early pancreatic lesions make a fat-related molecule that attracts nerves; halting this process might slow or stop the disease before cancer develops.

Inflammatory Bowel Disease

84 Uncovering the Dynamics of Mucosa-Associated Microbiota in Postoperative Recurrence of Crohn's Disease

L. Dubois, A. Chaussard, P. Seksik, S. Nancey, M. Nachury, X. Treton, A. Buisson, F. Carbonnel, M. Fumery, L. Peyrin-Biroulet, A. Boureille, X. Hébuterne, M. Serrero, E. Louis, P. Blanc, L. Brot, N. Rolhion, S. Vermeire, C. Manichanh, R. Fossmark, M. Bezault, M. Uzzan, REMIND Group, M. Allez, and H. Sokol

Deep sequencing of the mucosa-associated microbiota in the context of Crohn's disease allowed the authors to characterize the disease's recurrence with specific microbial signatures along the full range of the Rutgeerts score.

99 The Effect of Dose Intensification After Secondary Loss of Response to Ustekinumab in Crohn's Disease: Results of the RESCUE Study

P. Bossuyt, J.-F. Rahier, F. Baert, E. Louis, E. Macken, T. Lobaton, J. Busschaert, H. Peeters, P. Dewint, D. Franchimont, B. Willandt, C. Claessens, L. Vansteenkiste, O. Dewit, M. Ferrante, on behalf of the Belgian IBD Research and Development (BIRD) group, and S. Vermeire

Two different dose-intensification regimens with ustekinumab in patients with Crohn's disease experiencing loss of effect of this drug lead to similar chances of recapturing control of the disease.

Stress in early life alters gut nerve circuits, leading to long-term changes in pain sensitivity and bowel function, which helps to explain why childhood adversity increases digestive disease risk.

126 From Gut Feeling to Gray Matter: Mapping Defecation Urgency in Irritable Bowel Syndrome

WWW

N. Barazani, J. Sjö Dahl, G. Orell, M. Evripidou, M. Adjeiwaah, A. Icenhour, P. Lundberg, and S. Walter

In people with irritable bowel syndrome, urgency to have a bowel movement reflects both gut sensations and emotional responses, with diaries and questionnaires effectively capturing this real-life symptom.

The American Gastroenterological Association gathered a group of interdisciplinary experts to develop an updated Clinical Care Pathway on how to best screen for, diagnose, and treat metabolic dysfunction-associated steatotic liver disease. The complementary clinical application was also updated to reflect the changes in the clinical guidance: MASLD/MASH Clinical Care Pathway mobile application at gastro.org/MASLD.
